Project description

In the spirit of the EU policy for environment protection, the project stepped forward to harmonization of the national environmental laws of both countries and for the full adoption of the environmental aquis communautaire. The project's jointly implemented activities aimed to reduce common threats from pollution in the cross-border region in order to improve standard of living adequate for the health and well-being of the cross border population by providing opportunities for environmental democracy via the use of ICT, and raising awareness about environmental problems that need to be solved immediately in order to result in positive development in the cross-border region. The project was foreseen as a model for both countries on how to obtain public input for designing long term pollution prevention plans in the cross-border region and involving of the young people in promotion of preserving activities. Project activities involved: environmental awareness campaigns; equipment of the high schools labs with specialized instruments; training on environmental issues; fieldwork research; and addressing the environmental problems and influencing the public policies and practices for elimination of environmental contaminants.

The project was successfully implemented in December 2015.
